

I have been working with Junior McDonald who has provided outstanding support, and excelled in partnership working. Through Junior's willingness to facilitate new ways of working he and his team are able to provide a bespoke educational experience within the context of I.T. in which young people with complex needs who have often been rejected by the mainstream system are able to grow and believe in themselves to achieve.

Face to Face offers a high level of care, understanding and commitment to young people who may be at risk of educational marginalisation. It is an invaluable off-site educational provision that is able to restore a student's self belief and confidence to progress to further education.
